Spotlight

Having 2 AM raids, eating strange concoctions out of bedpans, and putting noses to the floor for "Junior Birdmen" were common experiences for the "Probies" this year.

The freshmen arrived August 21 to find their own capping strands which were made for them by their "Big Sisters." The strand contained 21 caps and one was pulled off as each week went by. Other surprises included already made beds and bulletin boards decorated with hospital supplies that they would soon know how to use.

Two parties were held in honor of the freshmen. One was given the week before they worked in the hospital for the first time. The second was held the night before capping. Skits about hospital situations and refreshments were given at both.

Unannounced raids were given frequently throughout the first semester. After the last one, at 2 AM on January 21, they earned the right to be called freshmen. No longer were they "Probies".

1. Eating a mixture of chocolate pudding and creamed corn out of a bedpan was just one of the many things freshmen did during raids.
2. Carol Thompson watches a skit, while Jo Buch eyes the fire as the last of the "probie caps" go up in flames.
3. The freshmen learned that the juniors' idea of fun was no fun at all.

4. Portraying a typical freshman performing a new procedure, Linda Markey checks Angela Gensic's pulse.

5. With their "probie caps" atop their heads, the freshmen sing their capping song at the capping party.

6. All noses must be touching the floor while the Big Sisses sing "Junior Birdmen".

7. Big and Little Sisses both enjoyed watching the various skits as performed by juniors.

"Oh, Here's To the Probies . . ."

FRESHMAN CAPPING SONG (sung to the tune of "Cabaret")

Well girls, we've made it,
Tonight is the night.
We're getting our hard-earned caps.
This is our capping day, my friend,
Come to our capping day.

Can you believe it?
We've made it this far.
There's no turning back for us.
We've come a long, long way, my friend,
Good-bye to "Probie" days.

We've paid our dues,
Survived the raids,
There will be no more anticipating,
Right this way your cap is waiting!

We're proud, We show it,
We've got it at last,
A cap sitting on our heads.
This is our capping day, my friend,
Have to admit it wasn't bad,
We won't forget the fun we've had.
This is our capping day!

Open House Attracts Many Prospective Students

Prospective student nurses come annually to Parkview's Open House. A glimpse of every rotation and organization is given by the students. Visitors have the opportunity to tour the dormitory, school, and hospital as student nurses serve as tour guides. The day-long event follows hopeful students and their parents to get a good idea of what Parkview is all about.

1. Angela Gensic, Laurie Einstein, and Linda Markey explain the patient teaching necessary for colostomy care.
2. Psychiatric counseling may be obtained at South Unit or from these three Seniors.
3. Freshmen Tami Klopenstein, Myrna Brown, and Teena Jacks inform visitors of their course content.
4. Joann Stutzman explains some aspects of Endocrine Nursing.
5. Cheryl Lanham adds the finishing touches to the Pediatric display.
6. Cindy McCracken demonstrates an IPPB treatment.
7. It looks as though the operating room has been moved to English Hall.
8. Leadership in Nursing was one of the many rotations that was displayed.

Juniors Rake For Dollars

The falling October leaves provided an opportunity for the Class of '78 to earn money. Each Junior spent two hours raking and bagging leaves on Parkview's grounds. The money earned was used to provide the banquet for the Senior Class.

1. Kathy Pugh receives assistance from a PV employee.
2. Jan Manning, Beth McDaniel, and Cindy Goldsberry learn expertise of leaf raking.
3. "Marilyn and Diane, you'll never get all those leaves into two small bags."
4. Marilyn Miller finds it more enjoyable to empty bags than fill them.
5. "We're almost done!"

Many Hours Are Spent At Purdue

1

The Freshmen soon learned that most of their time is spent at Indiana-Purdue University. They take courses in Anatomy and Physiology, Nutrition, Chemistry, Microbiology, and Pharmacology. Juniors study Psychology and Abnormal Psychology, and Seniors learn about Sociology and Social Problems.

3

1. Joyce Graybill begins this experiment by sterilizing the test tube.
2. The Juniors prepare for their Abnormal Psychology class.
3. "Do you think this culture will grow?"
4. The Seniors quickly make their getaway.

Happy Halloween!

1. Seniors Missy Cain and Jean Herman won the ugly doctor and nurse contest.
2. DeAnn Shank and Theresa Durnell roll well together.
3. Sally Schiffbauer and Debra Stefanski were two of this year's many "trick or treaters."
4. "Is that really the great pumpkin?"
5. "Would you believe that Suzy and Kristen are actually passing a life-saver on toothpicks?"
6. "Free kisses anyone?"
7. "Can you see our grades in that crystal ball, Mrs. Corps?"
8. The Fonz seems to have a new cheerleading girlfriend.

Halloween provided a worthwhile escape from the usual student nurse routine. Several awards were given for the creative costumes worn by the students. Apple cider and doughnuts were provided early in the evening before the spoils made their entrance in the freshman spook house.

Decorations, Santa, And Fun Are

Santa arrived just in time to find Parkview students eagerly awaiting their Christmas dinner. He presented everyone with gift certificates to Arby's and then he was gone; quick as a wink! Earlier, the students participated in a door decorating contest and some went carolling at South Unit and Veteran's Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Ross, and Mr. and Mrs. Goermar highlighted the evening with Christmas songs. The Senior class performed skits to close the evening.

All Part Of A Parkview Christmas

1. "What's this? Is Kathy Pugh trying to see what's in the package or is she placing it there for someone else?"
2. Juniors Lana Ewing and Diane Wozny reach for the top to hang their Christmas ornaments.
3. A Senior work of art: the stable where Mary and Joseph brought Jesus into the world.
4. Sheryl and Shirley Fivecoate add finishing touches.
5. Mrs. Goemar, Mrs. Ross, and their husbands provided entertainment at the party.
6. Judy Fritsch hangs the last bulb to her own miniature Christmas tree.
7. The evening began with Christmas carols.
8. Decorated doors helped bring out the Christmas spirit.

Anything For That Little White Cap

1. As no mirror was available, Darlene McGrath readjusted her cap with the use of one of the church's windows.
2. While the organist played "Pomp and Circumstance", the very squirmish and nervous freshmen began to file into the church.
3. Ruth Fensler and Joyce Whittemore watched their peers receive their caps with mild amusement, as Alexa Knight and Donna Dutton shed tears over the much-cherished occasion.

Facing the beginning of a new phase of their lives, sixty-nine freshmen received their nursing caps at the 24th annual capping service. It was held January 21, 1977 at the United Methodist Church in New Haven.

Dr. James Morin, Superintendent of the Fort Wayne District United Methodist Church, addressed the group.

Mrs. Carolyn Dayton, Coordinator of Fundamentals of Nursing, presented the Class of 1979. Mrs. Dorothy Craig, Director of Nursing Education, capped each student as her name was called. Each student then lit her "Lamp of Learning" from the large lamp held by Student Body President Susan Arthur.

Class advisor Mrs. Diana Case then led the class in the Florence Nightingale Pledge which is the "Hippocratic Oath" of the nursing profession.

Concluding the evening was a reception at the girls' school and dormitory, English Hall. Mrs. Craig received a dozen red roses from class president Sue Gutermuth as the rest of the class sang a rousing chorus of "This is our Capping Day", the freshman capping song.

4. Receiving the Award of Merit for Academic achievement and clinical skills was Jean Tallman.

5. Having been the first class for Mrs. Dorothy Craig to cap, she proudly places Brenda Needler's cap on her head.

6. After receiving her cap, Dawn Bizer lights her lamp from the large lamp held by Susan Arthur.

7. The tallest members of the class have the honor of receiving their caps first.

8. The entire class of 1979 watches as Mr. Dave Ridderheim, administrator of Parkview, presents the Award of Merit.

Polkas And Square Dances

1. This is one of the solemn moments at the dance.
2. It looks as though Jo Stutzman had the same idea as the cameraman when this picture was taken.
3. Mrs. Goings and her husband get into the mood of the evening.
4. "At least someone in this group is having a good time."
5. Laurie and Craig seem to be having a good time dancing to the music of the Adventurers.
6. Vicki Gillett, and Judy Sierer entertain their guests as they await the oncoming meal.
7. The banquet has a way of getting everyone together for fun and laughter.

Highlight The JR-SR Banquet

April 22nd was the date for the Junior-Senior Banquet. It is an annual affair given for the Seniors by the Junior class. This year it was held at the Black Rose Restaraunt and music was provided by the "Adventurers". Each girl was able to take one of the flowers which was used for decoration on the tables.

One More Week

And Then . . .

All the seams that the Snowwhite Garment Company sewed into the student uniforms three years ago, the seniors quickly ripped out with a simple pull, ready to be burned. The last week before graduation also saw toilet paper in the trees, signing uniforms in the hospital, and bubbling water fountains which all seemed to make graduation worthwhile.

All Those Smiles, Good Times

Banquets, banquets, and more banquets, and what scrumptuous food, all honoring graduating seniors. It started with the Jr.-Sr. Banquet on April 22, the Medical Society Dinner in mid April to the beautiful Alumni Banquet held at the Zoli's Chalet on April 29. Dr. Arthur Warr was the guest speaker for the evening.

Graduation Day, May 11, held more food and excitement in anticipation of upcoming commencement. Breakfast in the morning was held at the hospital cafeteria after a chapel service, then everyone took to the road to go to the Heritage House Smorgasbord, where awards and honor guards were presented for scholastic achievement. The Ideal Nurse Award, a new award, was presented to Rhonda Cincere, who in the eyes of her classmates represented the person who most resembled the image of a nurse.

Graduation — Dreams Became Reality

After three years of hard work, 54 seniors became graduates May 11, 1977 at St. Jude's Church, a commencement full of firsts. It was the first time that Mrs. Craig presented the school pin, the first time that six awards were presented and the first time that an updated Florence Nightengale pledge was recited. The new version was written by Vicki Andrew, Kristen Hetz, Jan Love, and Judy Sierer. Although there were many firsts, traditions also remained. Traditions which included red roses, the presentation of diplomas by Mark Slen, and many proud and smiling faces in anticipation of what lies ahead.

With forethought and sincerity, I solemnly pledge myself before God to create respect and trust in my chosen profession. I will endeavor to upgrade the standard of nursing care by continually striving to increase my knowledge, as I coordinate health team effort for the physical and emotional well being of those for whom I care. With skill and knowledge I will conscientiously administer all medications. I recognize my obligation to safeguard those in the realm of my care from incompetent, unethical or illegal conduct of others. I will keep foremost in my mind the importance of human dignity. As a professional, I go forth realizing the responsibilities I am obligated to fulfill for those committed to my care.

LAMP Staff Produces

Many hours are spent producing a yearbook. Collecting money, taking pictures, doing and redoing layouts, writing copy, and proofreading take an endless amount of time. This year the book was sponsored by generous physicians and hospital suppliers. Patrons also helped to support us.

Educators

Director Offers Guidance; Staff Assists

Many changes have taken place since Mrs. Dorothy Craig became Director of Nursing Education several years ago. For the first time this year she capped the Freshmen. She spent uncountable hours preparing for the NLN accreditation visit in March. She is always available to help students who need counseling and guidance. We can all appreciate that being Director of Nursing Education is no easy job.

Three long years rapidly came to an end. We'll never forget our Freshman year. It seemed as though we loved at Purdue, and our patients probably thought we knew absolutely nothing. We finally began to feel like nurses during summer session, and then Junior year hit us. It was one care plan after another with drug cards in between. We had to return early every Sunday to find our what patients we had. At least we worked in specialized areas such as ICU, ER, and OR. We were finally Big Sisses, and WE planned the raids.

Unbelievably, we made it to Senior year. There were no more care plans, and no more drug cards! We had one party after another, and we loved every minute of it. The year sped by so fast, that before we knew it, it was time for graduation. Yes, we finally made it, and would you believe that some weren't as anxious to leave as they thought they would be.

Class
1977

Black band day started our Junior year off in the right direction. We soon learned what it means to do drug cards, care plans, spend long hours studying, early rising, tears, laughter, and parties. It soon became a way of life for us. We became Big Sis's and took on the job of initiating the probies. Initiate we did with 2 A.M. raids, Hell Week, parties, and providing a shoulder to lean on. Our Halfway party was held at Shakey's Pizza Parlor. From then on, the year looked better. Diane Wozny designed the class pins and orders were placed. All the work it took as Jr. yardbirds, popcorn, candles, and Christmas ornament salesmen paid off as we treated seniors to an evening in their honor at the Black Rose Restaurant. Music for the Jr. - Sr. Banquet was provided by the "Adventurers". Now as we turn our last care plan in, we look forward to a new stripe.

How can you describe the first year in a nursing school? It seemed endless. Going to Purdue daily soon became routine. Chemistry, Anatomy and Physiology, Nutrition, Microbiology, and Pharmacology took alot of hard work and study. Is there any way to describe how nervous we all were on our first day in the hospital? They even expected us to give baths to each other. After that, it wasn't long before we had to give enemas and do dressing changes. That first catheterization was unreal! By the end of the year we could actually pass medications and give injections. The year wasn't all work and no play. Our Big Sisses welcomed us with parties and raids. We had a countdown until Capping, which was the highlight of the year. We even became salesmen to earn money for the next two years. Finally, the year did end, and we were off to a good start in our nursing careers.

LAMP PATRONS

A very special word of thanks is in order for Mrs. Kurt A. Einstein, (Laurie Einstein's Mom). She drew, and redrew the artwork. Using her artistic talent, she "spiced up" the division pages and the cover with artwork, adding a new dimension to The Lamp.

As I look back on the last three years, it is amazing just how fast they went. It has been a lot of work. I am speaking not only of school work, but also of the work involved in producing three yearbooks. The many hours spent are worth it when you see your work printed. I want to thank everyone who helped, especially Laurie and Mrs. Einstein. I hope you enjoy this book for many years to come.
